

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an apparatus and a method for enabling control on print permission, without applying new control information or a protection method, copy control information is detected, which 5 is added to digital information, when controlling the printing of digital information, thereby controlling on whether the printing can be conducted on the digital information depending upon the copy control information detected.